Note From the Chairs

Greetings Delegates!

Our names are Peter Park and Ella Ferrari and it is our pleasure to welcome you to the Council of Ricks crisis committee. In this committee, a disturbance echoes across the Citadel. The Council of Ricks has issued an urgent summons: rogue Mortys have destabilized the Central Finite Curve, and the multiverse teeters on the brink of collapse. You, the delegates of this extraordinary committee, must navigate political ego, scientific anarchy, and interdimensional intrigue to decide whether to restore order, seize power, or rewrite the rules of reality itself.

If you are new to Model UN, do not be shy! MUN is home to one of the most encouraging communities in high school. The various experiences and perspectives that people bring to these conferences are what make Model UN so special. Try your best, be engaged, and embrace the opportunity to learn. We wish you all a great conference and look forward to the diplomatic resolve, passion, and joy that you will bring to this conference! Feel free to contact us with any questions. See you at HackMUN VII!

Sincerely,
Peter Park, Undersecretary General and Chair, HackMUN VII

Committee Procedure

This committee follows standard crisis committee procedure. Delegates will represent critical figures in the progression of the Council of Ricks crisis and will experience intense negotiations, strategic decision-making, and rapid crisis management as they navigate through this committee.

Debate Format

Debate will consist of a series of unmoderated caucuses and moderated causes. In a moderated caucus, debate is structured and when proposed, a delegate should list the total amount of speaking time, then the individual speaking time, and finally the topic of debate. In an unmoderated caucus, discussion is unstructured and delegates travel around the room to converse with other delegates.

Position Papers

If you wish to be considered for an award this year at HackMUN VII, you must submit a position paper. Position Papers help you effectively prepare for debate by engaging meaningfully with the topic before the conference. Furthermore, your chairs can better understand your position's unique issues and possible solutions. For this crisis committee, an ideal position paper reflects an understanding of the context surrounding the crisis and contains a description of your position and stance within the conflict, the resources you may have at your disposal, and potential solutions to the challenges at hand. Please send position papers, around 1-2 pages in length, in Google Doc or PDF format to councilofrickshackmun@gmail.com by March 7th, 2026.

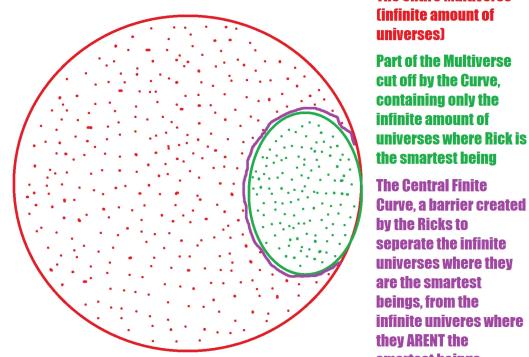

If you have questions about committee procedure, please feel free to reach out to councilofrickshackmun@gmail.com.

Introduction to the Committee

The Council of Ricks, a governing body made up of Ricks from across the multiverse, was established to maintain order and prevent chaos caused by their own hubris. Mortys, meanwhile, are generally treated as sidekicks, shields, or tools by most Ricks. This dynamic has created growing resentment among Mortys.

When President Morty discovers the Central Finite Curve, the walled off portion of the multiverse where all known Ricks and Mortys reside, he comes to an astounding realization:

This curve was created by Rick C-137 who, in collaboration with the early Council of Ricks, blocked off universes in which Ricks were the smartest men in their universe. Outraged by this, President Morty reveals the truth to all of his fellow Mortys. In whispered conversations in corners of the Citadel, the capital of known Rick civilization, Mortys plan to take back their autonomy and see existence outside of the Central Finite Curve where Ricks are not the supreme beings they have made themselves to be.

Prior to the most recent Citadel election, many of the original council Ricks had begun to be exterminated in a systematic, gruesome manner. The one remaining member of this council is Rick C-137, who is one of the most influential Ricks in the multiverse and the Citadel as of now, but he is in danger. Recently, Rick intelligence has confirmed that a faction of Mortys, led by a mysterious "Evil Morty," has begun organizing against the Council. Mortys across dimensions are questioning their treatment and demanding recognition as equals, not disposable sidekicks to be used as their Ricks see fit.

As the crisis grows in severity, instances of more and more Morty led insurrections against their Rick masters are being reported to the council everyday. Following a Morty-led attack on The Citadel, which resulted in the death of multiple Rick Citadel Guards, the Council of Ricks has called an emergency meeting with many important Morty figures and other third party figures with key swaying power in the time of crisis. As members of the committee, delegates will attempt to bring the crisis to an end, whether this means that the Mortys be put down with force, the Ricks' hold on the Citadel comes to an end, a peaceful agreement to an end of conflict is found, or another, unknown outcome. The conclusion to this committee is up to the Rick, Morty, and other show-accurate delegates to decide and shape.

The Council has called for the emergency session to address:

- Security threats posed by Morty uprisings
- Political legitimacy of the Council of Ricks
- The possibility of Mortys gaining political autonomy

The outcome will shape not only the fate of the Council but also the balance of power in the multiverse.

What Now?

1. Council Authority vs. Morty Autonomy
 - Should Mortys remain sidekicks or be granted more rights within the multiverse?
2. Security Concerns
 - How to handle armed Morty factions forming outside the Council's control.
3. Evil Morty's Influence
 - Who is Evil Morty? Is he a legitimate political leader for Mortys, or a dangerous manipulator?
4. Ethics of the Citadel
 - Does the Citadel perpetuate oppression of Mortys, and is reform possible?
5. Unity vs. Fragmentation
 - Should the Council of Ricks maintain power, or allow independent governance for Mortys (and possibly other beings)?

Committee Positions

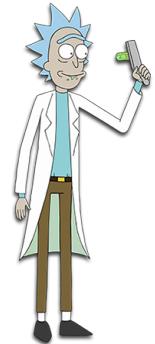

1. President Morty

President Morty was elected as the first ever Morty president after promising to unite Mortys and Ricks to achieve their combined goals. He was elected in extremely shady circumstances, with many of his competitors meeting their end before the election, but he is very popular with Mortys who feel represented. However, President Morty resents Rick supremacy and seeks to find universes where Ricks are less intelligent than their Mortys.

2. Rick C-137

Rick C-137 is the primary Rick that the show itself follows canonically. Rick is extremely skeptical of the Council and distrustful of authority. As such, many other Ricks seek to eliminate him, and he does not get along with the Council of Ricks. However, Rick C-137 is highly influential in the Rick community due to his intelligence and creativity.

3. Doofus Rick

Doofus Rick is somewhat of a “defective” Rick. He is nowhere near as smart or crafty as other Ricks, and he is ostracized and mocked by others. This has made him extremely sympathetic to Mortys and their struggles under Ricks.

4. Rick Prime

Rick Prime is the original Rick. He was the first to create portal technology, allowing Ricks to travel through the multiverse and meet each other. He also killed Rick C-137's wife and daughter out of spite, leading Rick C-137 to become nihilistic and depressed. Rick Prime is extremely secretive, manipulative, and focused on power and proving his superiority.

5. Seal Team Rick

Leader of the Rick special operations unit. Seal Team Rick's job is to lead his team in systematically eliminating those seen as threats to the Citadel. Seal Team Rick works closely with President Morty, being under his command.

6. Scientist Rick

Scientist Rick is an anti-council Rick, concerned about scientific progress being hindered by political squabbles. He will seek to end conflict using peaceful, scientific solutions rather than war. He is also not a fan of complete Rick supremacy.

7. Tycoon Rick

Tycoon Rick is motivated by the trade and economics of the Citadel. He is a capitalistic mogul whose primary goal is money and protecting his business empire, "Simple Rick's Wafers".

8. Detective Rick

Detective Rick is a crime-fighting Rick who seeks to end Morty abuse and Rick crime in the Citadel. He is heavily focused on uncovering President Morty's conspiracies.

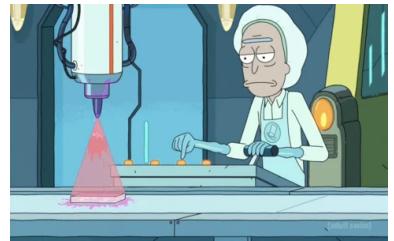

9. Cop Morty

Cop Morty is a law enforcement agent who works for the Citadel Police. He is a dedicated and proud protector and upholder of the law but is torn between loyalty to order and his solidarity with the Morty struggle.

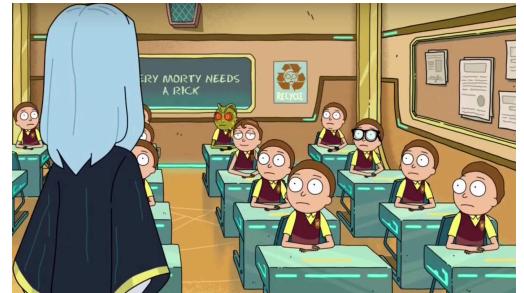

10. Worker Morty

Worker Morty represents exploited Mortys in the Citadel's economy. With the mass subjection of Mortys and their perceived inferiority, Worker Morty aims to gain sovereignty and gain respect for the working class of Morty's who are treated as inhuman.

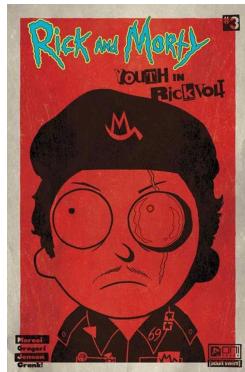

11. Student Morty

Student Morty serves as a passionate youth voice for Morty equality, protesting the power system of Rick superiority and working with other Morty's to try and secure a better future for all Mortys.

12. Revolutionary Morty

Revolutionary Morty wants immediate violent overthrow of Rick rule, and will stop at almost nothing to achieve this. Revolutionary Morty believes it is too late and too little to try and negotiate peace and fairness with the Ricks, and sees them as a great evil too vast to coexist with.

13. Bodyguard Morty

Bodyguard Morty is a loyalist to President Morty who pushes hardline, anti-Rick rhetoric. In addition to protecting President Morty against any and all threats, Bodyguard Morty is responsible for much of the Morty resistance propaganda that spurs on Morty rebellions.

14. Summer Smith (C-137)

Summer Smith is Rick C-137's unwitting granddaughter, who followed Rick into his portal and was accidentally dragged into Council politics. She finds Morty oppression unfair, but seeing as she does not belong to either group must forge her own path in this conflict.

15. Birdperson

Birdperson is an external ally, who provides moral/ethical perspective. Birdperson is an old friend of Rick C-137's, and is therefore extremely skeptical of the Council of Ricks' arrogance and mistreatment of Mortys.

16. Mr. Poopybutthole

Mr. Poopybutthole is a close friend of Rick's, who was a planet-wide superstar in another dimension before he moved into Rick C-137's house to take refuge from the fame. However, in the current crisis, Mr. Poopybutthole's stardom becomes a vital point of contention between the two sides, as both vie for him to lobby for their sides.

Committee Directives:

Directives must be voted on and passed with simple majority. Committee Directives need at least 3 sponsors and 2 signatories. Once passed, directives will be given to the backrooms and will affect the flow of the committee and its narrative.

Crisis Notes:

Crisis notes are like directives but they are not shared with the committee. Committee members can use Crisis Notes for anything they want accomplished, personally or professionally, without having to disclose this to committee members. Note that actions outside a committee member's powers will be limited to the scope of one's power by the committee's backroom.

JPDs (Joint Personal Directives):

A JPD (Joint Personal Directive) is a private, 2 or 3 person directive that is passed privately and goes directly to the backrooms for their consideration. It does not need signatories, and the only sponsors should be those also involved in this personal plan. In other words, a JPD acts as sort of a cross between a crisis note and a directive.
